

Merck Ski Association presents Heli-skiing in the Canadian Rockies

April 11 to 20, 2008

USD $5,000* priced at per person double rate (not including airfare to Calgary)

A lifetime dream awaits: Heli-skiing with the MSA at the birthplace of Heli-skiing, the Bugaboo Lodge at the base of the Bugaboo Glacier, in British Columbia, Canada.

Imagine 6.5 days of guided heli-skiing, complete with Atomic powder skis and poles, all transfers, double occupancy at the exclusive CMH Lodge in the scenic Bugaboos, all high-end and energy-stoking excellent meals and non-alcoholic beverages, and the pre- and post-trip hotel room April 11 and 19 at the Calgary Airport. At a phenomenal guaranteed vertical of 100,000 feet this is sure to keep you pumped; skiing beyond guaranteed vertical is charged at a rate of US$76 per 3,280 vertical feet. Strong intermediate skiers with no powder experience are welcome in the Powder Introduction program, with 70,000 guaranteed vertical feet, two guides per group with powder instruction.

- Base Elevation: 4,888 feet above sea level
- Skiing Elevation: 3,100 to 10,006 feet above sea level
- Skiing Terrain: Purcell Mountain Range, 393 square miles – 206 runs
- Average Snowfall: at 5,900 feet = 59 feet
